DEFENSE TAKES CENTER STAGE FOR ARBUCKLE

State Springs Big Surprise When It Closed Late Tuesday

DEFENDANT MAY TALK

Prosecution Has Big Array of Testimony to Use in Rebuttal

SAN FRANCISCO. Nov. 23.—Possibility that Roscoe Arbuckle may take the witness stand in his own defense set the court room in a high state of interest just before opening of today's session of Arbuckle's trial. Arbuckle's lawyers would not reveal their plans, but there seemed to be more than an even chance that he would testify. Arbuckle arrived at court early, in one of his luxurious motor cars. He was accompanied by Minta Durfee, his wife.

The prosecution revealed to newspapermen before court convened that it had elaborate rebuttal testimony in prospect which may take several days to complete.

The defense plans to introduce some of its strongest witnesses today. Depositions of every member of the famous Labor Day party will be introduced, Gavin McNab, Arbuckle's chief counsel, indicated. Only a few of the members of the party have testified in person thus far.

The "million dollar defense" got under way late yesterday when the state suddenly closed its case. It came as a surprise, as a number of witnesses whose testimony was regarded as highly important as the coroner's inquest, the preliminary examination and before the grand jury, were not called. Mrs. Bambina Maude Delmont, complaining witness, was one of those who was not called by the state. She will be a defense witness, McNab indicated.

The prosecution's action in closing without warning failed to take Arbuckle's counsel by surprise. Arbuckle's lawyers had under consideration the proposition of asking the judge to free their client at once without hearing further testimony on the ground that the state had not succeeded in showing that he inflicted injuries upon Miss Rappe that caused her death. It was a foregone conclusion that such a plea would be denied.

The defense planned to prove that Miss Rappe's death was caused by an illness which Arbuckle had nothing to do with. They were lining up a score of witnesses through whom they intended to demonstrate that the famous thrower of pies is innocent.

One of Arbuckle's first witnesses was Miss Kate Brennan, tall, portly, and well dressed in brown satin. She said she had been a chambermaid at the Hotel St. Francis and was permitted to explain in detail how chambermaids clean rooms. She gave a demonstration, dusting a desk in the court room with defense exhibit A—a cheese cloth dust rag. Miss Brennan painted Arbuckle as a jolly good fellow. She described him as having called her into his room after the pajama party.

"Girlie, turn over that mattress," she said Arbuckle told her. "Then he tipped me $2.50 and said 'Girlie, this is for you,'" the witness testified.

"He went out and came in again with some ice in a glass. He was fooling with it with a straw and then he said to me, 'With that map, can't you have a drink of whisky?' I told him I didn't drink."

Today's program included a visit to the suite in the Hotel St. Francis, where Arbuckle gave his party. The rooms were ready for the official inspection, furnished as they were the day of the party.

Arbuckle came into court in the midst of an almost unparalleled array of legal and expert advisors. In addition he was flanked by some of the biggest of the movie millionaires who watched with close attention every step in the drama in which the morality of their industry is on trial. Before court convened the room buzzed with conversation.

CANTU STAFF HEADS EXECUTED TUESDAY

CALEXICO, Nov. 23.—Following execution of three former staff officers of Esteban Cantu at the Mexicali garrison late yesterday, increased military activities developed today. Many prisoners were marched into the Mexicali garrison. Federal patrols were scurrying throughout the area. The military wireless system, furnishing communication with Nogales, San Luis, Tia Juana and other border points, was operating all during the night instead of the usual one hour a day schedule.

COUNCIL TO MEET ON FRIDAY NIGHT

The meeting of the city council scheduled for tonight has been postponed until Friday night. The change was made because of a clause in the city charter that forbids holding a meeting of the city council the night before a regular meeting date. All scheduled meetings that are changed on account of holidays must be held the day after the holiday.

Sees Glorification of Crime as Thing Much to be Avoided

Seeing a tendency to glorify crime Henry James in his comments on the day's news points out a few cases that take all the glory out of it. He cites the taking of money from a poor woman by the teller of Spurgin's bank in Chicago, the robbing of a mother in a department store while she was trying to comfort a crying baby and the theft of a bicycle from a hard-working newsboy as examples.

Then he refers to Roy Gardner who has been glorified by unthinking persons as a lazy, sneaking lout, boasting of his prowess and his love for the wife and baby he has basely deserted. All that Henry James sees in him is a worthless, dangerous and despicable creature and after you have read what he says on the editorial page perhaps you will agree with him.

James W. Foley has a bit to say about the selfish man in "The Listening Post," and Dr. Frank Crane finds an opportunity for the millionaire to embrace. There are excellent editorials and other features that hold the interest and add to your store of knowledge. It's a good editorial page; read it.

MADALYNNE HABEAS CORPUS CASE WAS DROPPED TODAY

Counrt Grants Motion of Defense to Have Proceedings Stopped

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23.—Madalynne Obenchain's defense today suddenly changed tactics and surrendered in its fight to secure "immediate trial or freedom" on a wirt of habeas corpus. While Arthur C. Burch, Madalynne's "platonic friend," was in superior court standing trial for his life in connection with the same murder for which Mrs. Obenchain is under indictment, the latter's counsel appeared in the appellate court and ran up the "white flag."

"May it please your honor, we move to dismiss the writ of habeas corpus for the reason that there will result no material benefit to the defendant," Lecompte Davis, acting chief counsel for Madalynne, said, in addressing the court.

"Under the laws of California, the district attorney would, in all probability, reindict her, which would only delay her date of trial. We will hold our place on the calendar to follow the Burch trial."

The court, without comment, granted the request. Charles Fricke, representing the prosecution, expressed surprise at the sudden surrender.

Social Germany Presents Very Sorry Picture, Morals Fall Back

BERLIN, Nov. 23. — A big task—the search for a new ideal in Germany today. Often one is tempted to give it up altogether.

Social Germany presents a sorry picture. The industrial and economic ravages of the last seven years have not failed in their effects.

In the luxurious holiday resorts one is reminded of the "Decline and Fall." Here one can see how our civilization will end if nothing is done to alter the present trend of events.

Everything is a mad rush for pleasure. In places like Baden-Baden, called "le petit Paris," you imagine you are at the Ascot races. Every afternoon the cafes, restaurants and hotels are filled with elegantly-dressed and bejewelled men and women.

Long motor tours are undertaken, though charge for a taxicab is 600 marks (at the pre-war rate of exchange $120) for an afternoon. In the evenings the hotels and "bars" and "Dieles" are filled with revelers, dancing and drinking. The latter is compulsory—in every public place there is "Wein-Zwang." You are not admitted to any cafe whatsoever unless you undertake to consume wine or champagne. It is a useful source of profit for the cafe owner, and of profit for the State.

"Our Dissolute Society"

The deterioration in manners and morals which results may be imagined. Those Germans who care about their country speak sadly of "unsere velotterte Gesellschaft" ("our dissolute society").

In the public dancing halls in Berlin chairs are removed and rugs and cushions take their place—the divans of old Rome. Girls cannot be in the street alone after dark.

There is a mania for sex plays—Wedekind, Schnitzler, Sudermann are played in every large town, while the output of plays of less known dramatists on the same subject seems never-ending. At the same time the classical favorites are by no means neglected, and performances of Shaw, Wade and Shakespeare, as well as modern and ancient German authors, are attended by enthusiastic and crowded houses.

A great national festival is being prepared for Gerhart Hauptmann's sixtieth birthday next year, and so great is German veneration for letters and art that this dramatist-poet is even spoken of as a possible future president of the Republic.

For the militarism we fought to eradicate in Germany we have substituted a possibly worse vice—materialism run mad.

There is no conversation except of prices and exchanges. Middle classes and workers (whose children would be long dead were it not for the magnificent work of the "Quaker-Speisung" in all the big centers) have to talk of the means of livelihood in order to make both ends meet; the rich divide their time between wondering how to grow richer and wondering how long they will be allowed to keep their wealth. It is not a promising atmosphere for the birth of a new Germany.

Third Class and No Hats

Although among the upper classes and war profiteers expenditure is so extravagant, there are evidences of some forms of economy. No German travels first class on the railways; very few second class. The great majority travel third, although the seats are not padded; and some even fourth. Another form of economy is hatlessness in the most elegant promenades, in town and country, there is hardly a hat to be seen.

In the hotels practically everything in the way of food can be obtained. But certain reminiscense of war remain. For instance, in the appearance of black bread for breakfast—unless white rolls are specially ordered at a mark apiece—In the badness of the butter—at 32 marks a pound—in the substitute coffee, and the scarcity of milk.

In even the biggest hotels it is customary for guests to keep food in their bedrooms to bring down to the dining hall their own pots of butter or jam; and it is a common sight to see them pocketing the remains of breakfast or tea—pats of butter, lumps of sugar, a cake, a roll, and even black bread and paper serviettes.

Because taxes are so high hotel proprietors seem to have invented every conceivable way of profit-making, including that of underpaying their staff. A fifteen-year-old lift boy, too ashamed for some time to confess what his earnings were, revealed at last that he was getting 40 marks a month (today about two shillings); he was the eldest of a family of eight.

BRITAIN CHOPS OFF MANY NAVY HEADS

LONDON, Nov. 23.—A further step in naval retrenchment—in accord with the movement for limitation of armament—is planned by the British government. Sweeping reductions in personnel of the royal navy are said to include the demotion of sixty captains and 240 commanders. Most of those demoted were promoted during the war. The Northcliffe papers are demanding abrogation of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, which it is claimed is detrimental to China, prejudicial to Anglo-American relations, unpopular in the British dominions, and even harmful to Japan.

POSTOFFICE WANTS PATRONS TO HELP GET GOOD SERVICE

Wrap All Holiday Packages, Address Plainly is Request Made

In anticipation of the Christmas rush which will begin in several days, postal authorities are sending out an appeal to offices, firms and individuals to cooperate with the postoffice in expediting the dispatching of the mail by using cards and envelopes of standard size and to send their mail matter early.

Congestion is naturally expected in the postoffice at this time of the year, but it can be relieved if patrons will do their share toward helping postal clerks and mail carriers.

Possibly one of the most important things to a postal clerk is legible and neatly addressed mail. Address mail properly as to street and number.

Here are 11 cardinal points cited which will mitigate the mail men's grief:

Mail early.
Wrap packages with care.
Place return address on mail.
Place proper street and number on mail.
Properly stamp, wrap and address Christmas packages.
Pack and wrap tightly. Loose wrapping causes breakage and delay.
Do not skimp stamps to keep from wrapping and packing with care.
Pay registry fee of 10 cents if package is valuable.
A Christmas package represents sentiment rather than intrinsic worth. Therefore spend less on the present and more on wrapping and postage.
Many persons have spent an unhappy Christmas because improperly wrapped and addressed packages fail to arrive.
Remember, the postoffice wants to help you, but you must help by complying with instructions.

CONFESSION BURCH MAY NOT BE GIVEN AS TESTIMONY

Dist. Atty. Woolwine Will Not State it Will be Introduced in Trial

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23.—The much exploited confession which Arthur C. Burch is alleged to have made to a newspaper man may not be used by the state in prosecuting the Kennedy murder trial after all. Such a probability was present when the trial resumed today with seven women and one man temporarily seated as jurors. The purported confession was dragged into the case earlier than expected when District Attorney Thomas Lee Woolwine and John J. Sullivan, Seattle, one of the trio of defense counsel, tilted over it just before adjournment, late yesterday. Sullivan had been asking every prospective juror whether she—they were all shes—knew Chandler Sprague, the newspaperman to whom Burch is said to have confessed. Woolwine interposed the objection that the defense was placing too much stress on this point.

"Well, if we can be assured the state will not introduce this man as a witness, we will drop the question," said Sullivan.

"At this time I cannot definitely state whether he will be called or not," replied Woolwine.

From his manner of reply it was inferred that the probability of Sprague being called as a witness was remote.

This conclusion upsets much of the popular theory of the line which the state would pursue in trying to prove Burch guilty of murdering J. Belton Kennedy on the night of August 5 in Beverly Glen.

JAPS RECEDE NAVY DEMAND IS REPORTED

Believed Admiral Kato Will So Announce at Today's Meeting

HUGHES GETS TIRED

Believe it Will Mean Turning Point in Great Arms Parley

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23. — Japan has decided to recede partly from her hitherto insistent stand that she be allowed an increase of 10 per cent in capital ship tonnage under the American program for limitation of naval armament. This was learned on highest authority as the naval armament committee of the arms conference met to discuss this situation. Admiral Baron Kato, minister of the Japanese navy, is expected to announce the Japanese decision at the meeting today.

This meeting probably may be a turning point in the history of the conference. Despite the fact naval experts are at loggerheads, it is authoritatively believed a settlement will be reached on the Japanese claims to a tonnage of 70 percent as great as that of the United States and Great Britain.

A settlement rests in the hands of Secretary of State Hughes, Admiral Baron Kato and Arthur J. Balfour, the heads of the American, Japanese and British delegations and it is believed that the authoritative prediction that an agreement will be reached is based on tentative understandings reached in recent informal conferences between these three leaders.

The situation is believed to be that Secretary Hughes is tired of the discussion of the naval experts and their failure to agree and has decided to take the matter in his own hands again to force the question to a settlement.

A pistol cleaning rod and rags were found in his room. Stewart was to have married Miss Mary Nordhoff at the Church of the Angels, Pasadena, tomorrow.

LONDON HIGH BROWS DISCUSS PARLEY NOW IN SESSION

No Country Should Strip Itself of Armor Immediately Says Lansdowne

LONDON, Nov. 24.—"I do not look upon the Washington conference as a rival to the League of Nations, but as something which is going to cover a portion of the ground, which, at the moment, the League of Nations could not cover.

"If that conference results in the settlement of the Pacific question it will have made a very great contribution toward world peace and the diminution of armaments."

The above statement summarizes the opinion of Earl Grey of Falloden, who, as Sir Edward Grey, was foreign secretary in the Asquith cabinet at the outbreak of the great war and was the responsible British minister during the preliminary negotiations with Germany, Austria, France and Russia.

Lord Grey, however, still pins his faith in the League of Nations as being the only permanent piece of machinery which can deal with any European controversy.

"The Washington conference," he declares, "is not going to take the place of the League of Nations, because it is not, as far as I can see, going to provide any permanent machinery to deal with European questions.

"Surely the League of Nations is the only really effective insurance that we can make against war. Expenditure on armaments is perhaps an insurance against defeat, but it is no insurance against war.

"The last war showed the value of insurance against defeat, but it is not going to keep nations out of difficulties in the future.

"In future there will be no such thing as one side losing and the other side winning. Both sides will lose, and nothing will divert the consequences. The idea that we can make the defeated side pay the cost of war is impossible nowadays.

"The lesson of previous wars was that you must learn or suffer, but the lesson of the 1914 war is that you must learn or perish.

"Human nature must rise to a larger patriotism. This generation and future generations, having the experience of the last war, must be wiser and stronger in self-control, with a firmer grasp on the real and highest interests of nations and human nature than our forefathers had the opportunity of having."

Lansdowne Talks

"The United States has given us an opening—the creation of wholesomer international atmosphere, the futility of vast armaments will become obvious, and those who have to bear the burden of expense will not allow their industries to become paralyzed and their domestic comforts destroyed in order to promote costly rivalries and military adventures."

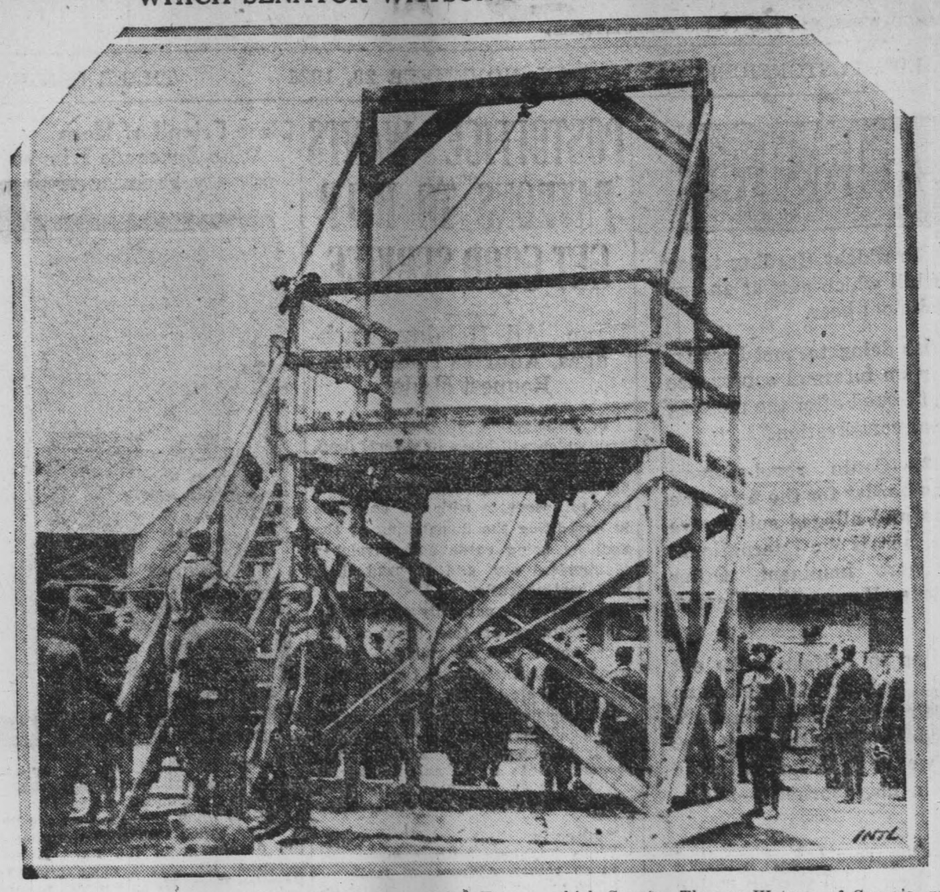
This is the opinion of the Marquis of Lansdowne, foreign secretary of Great Britain in the Salisbury, Rosebery, and later, the Balfour cabinets.

"No one suggests," Lord Lansdowne goes on to say, "that this country or any other self-respecting power should suddenly strip itself of its arms. Nations have long memories and will take no risks.

"Nor will they allow their naval and military resources to be rationed by an outside authority.

"There will be a growing impatience of huge armaments, and atrophy will overtake the Essens of the future. A great part of the criticism which has been directed against the scheme seems to be due to the idea that our adhesion to any international combination of the kind suggested would involve a weakening of our national spirit, and a decline in the splendid patriotism, which has stood us in such good stead in the past. I am, however, sanguine enough to believe that there is room both for a patriotism based upon pride of race and the glorious achievements of the past and also for the feeling that the whole world, with its boundless possibilities, is the common inheritance of all the nations of the earth, that there is no part of it in which we have not all of us a concern, and that it is common humanity, not peculiar to any one country, which is outraged when we see any part of the world wantonly outraged and disfigured. I cannot help believing that this larger patriotism is destined to play a great part in the history of mankind."

ACTUAL PHOTOGRAPH OF EXECUTION OF AMERICAN SOLDIER WHICH SENATOR WATSON HAS PRODUCED BEFORE SENATE



This is the photograph of the scaffold in Is-sur-Tille, France, which Senator Thomas Watson, of Georgia, produced in the Senate when he made his charges that American soldiers were hanged in France by their officers without court-martial. The photograph was turned over to Senator Watson by a Washington, D C., ex-service man. The condemned soldier can be seen mounting the steps to the "drop," while American soldiers stood "at attention." According to the War Department's records, there were two soldiers executed in this town, following a trial and their conviction. Senator Watson's charges are being made the subject of a Senate investigation.

THE EVENING STORY

SOMETHING FOR CHARLOTTE

(Copyright, 1921, by W. Werner)

When after a year's boarding Charlotte Hurd suddenly decided to have a home of her own, she found the older Hurds, Vernon's father and mother, quite disposed to be delighted.

"You'll be much happier in your own house, my dear," said Mrs. Hurd, beaming. She was a large-framed woman with tired eyes and a vivacious air, a good woman, but not easily to be understood, people had warned Charlotte when she entered the family. Now as for Mr. Hurd, senior, there was a genial, frank, open-hearted man. "You'll like your father-in-law," Charlotte had been told innumerable times.

Charlotte liked them both. She had intended to from the beginning, primarily because they were Vernon's; secondarily, because she was a bit lonely in the strange new town to which her marriage had brought her. Moreover, she had never had any "real folks" of her own, as she expressed it, only an aunt, who had been a rather indifferent guardian. When Vernon came into her life with his love and his desire to protect and provide for her, she had been only too glad to give up trying to do for herself and go to him. And she was very happy, although they were having a rather difficult time to keep even with the world. Vernon did not earn quite enough, but that, of course, would come in time. In the mean time she was bound to economize as much as she could. Yet, even though it meant a great saving to live with Vernon's parents, as they were invited to do, Charlotte had firmly refused. She preferred to board until they could see their way clear to have a home of their own. And now that the time had come she could see that her mother-in-law was very much pleased.

"I boarded for two years when I was first married," said Mrs. Hurd, with her tired eyes and sprightly mouth. "And I'd have been boarding yet if Albert had had his way. We began very small—just three rooms and a very little furniture. But it was home, my dear."

After all, Vernon left the entire business of homemaking to Charlotte. She hunted rooms from morning till night, and at last found four that seemed to be just the thing. Vernon gave her enough money to buy the first few needfuls, and Charlotte would not let him do more than that. She had a horror of debt. Secretly she hoped that the older Hurds would do something for them. If she had one more rug and a chair she could make out. Perhaps Father and Mother Hurd would supply these.

Indeed, they seemed quite inclined to do something, for Mrs. Hurd said so. "We're going to the city, my dear," she said to Charlotte, "and we shall both bring you back something you want. Now, if there is anything you have a special preference for, I hope you'll name it, and we'll do our best to get it for you."

"Oh, thank you!" cried Charlotte, her face brightening with grateful color. "But I couldn't think of suggesting. You know so much better than I do, for I've never kept house. So plyease get whatver you like. I shall be delighted, of course."

After Mrs. Hurd departed she jumped up and down. "It will be a rug—I'm sure it will be a rug, for she knows we need one and can't buy it just yet. I'll tell Vern—no, I guess I'll wait till it arrives." For already Charlotte had learned what every wife must learn sooner or later, to have her little reservations from her husband, especially when there is such a complication of a mother-in-law involved. If she told Vern it was going to be a rug, and it shouldn't be, and he blurted out some intimation to his mother, it would make things rather dreadful.

So Charlotte kept still and waited—waited as a child waits for Christmas. At the same time she planned some return to make to Vern's parents. "I'll have them both in to dinner. I'll practice and practice till I can give them a good one. They go out so seldom. Let me see what I shall have." She was quite happy planning her little menu.

Mr. and Mrs. Hurd came over as soon as they arrived home from the city.

"My dear," began Mrs. Hurd, "the gift I selected for you won't be here for a day or two, but here is a little cut of it," and she handed Charlotte the illustration of a chair—the very kind of chair she had most wanted, but which cost too much almost for her to think of.

Charlotte gave a little cry. "Oh Mother Hurd! How perfectly dear of you." And she did what she had never felt free enough to do before. She put her arm about her mother-in-law's shoulders and kissed her cheek.

Mrs. Hurd's tired eyes filled with tears of pleasure. "And now, papa," she said, "give Charlotte what you bought for her."

Mr. Hurd laid in Charlotte's hand a small box.

"My wife's gift," he said, pompously, "seemed to me to have too general a significance. This is something personal, my dear, something which I trust will remind you—of the giver every time you wear it."

"Wh-what could it be?" mused Charlotte. She opened the box, "Oh, a wrist watch!" she managed to say.

Queer feelings struggled within her and almost betrayed her. She hated wrist watches; she could not bear to have any kind of a timepiece near her, certainly not attached to her arm. Her color flowed back and forth in her sensitive face, but she lifted her eyes bravely. "How perfectly dear of you, Father Hurd," she repeated inately. "Thank you very much." Then she kissed him, too, on his bulbous pink cheek.

Vern eyed her anxiously, but for once held his tongue until after the gift bearers had departed. "Were you so pleased with that wrist thing?" he asked. "I thought you did not like watches. I remember hinting round to give you one before we were married and what you said. But maybe a wrist watch coming from old dad strikes you different."

"It strikes me just the same," Charlotte started to say, but instead she smiled. "It was certainly very nice and kind of your father, dear. I imagine it is an expensive one, too."

"Expensive! I should say so. There's one that looks just like it in McHenry's window this minute priced $80."

"Eighty dollars!" sighed Charlotte. And she thought suddenly of all $80 could be made to buy in their bare little house.

She tried bravely to wear the watch once or twice for Mr. Hurd's cake, but the feel of it and the sound of it nearly sent her into fits. When she did not wear it, however, he was always asking about it. She had made every excuse she could think of and endured all of it she could until she almost began to wish that she could lose it where she could never find it again.

Then one day as she was sitting with Mrs. Hurd the elder woman said suddenly: "I'm sorry about that watch Charlotte. I know you don't like them." As Charlotte lifted startled eyes, she went on: "I tried my best to get Albert not to buy it for you. What I had suggested for you was a rug, a Chinese thing with the sofest colors. But Albert—Well, when you've lived with that kind of a man for almost thirty years, of your life you learn not to cross his will, no matter how much he loves you."

At last the meaning of those tired eyes was clear to Charlotte, and she turned round and clasped Mrs. Hurd's hand.

"Albert did practically that same thing when we were first married and living very plain and poor. I wanted a pair of shoes—you know, sensible high ones, and he got me a pair of opera slippers. I nearly froze my feet all winter. That was a long time ago, but he is just the same Albert now. However, you please him very much, and if you can stand to wear the watch once in a while when he is by— As for the rug, I've ordered it for you. It's on the way this minute."

For a minute Charlotte sat looking at her mother-in-law, her surprise over the rug obscured by the feeling that it stood for much in diplomacy, careful management, and perhaps economy as well on Mrs. Hurd's part. Her lips quivered slightly and her voice too, when she spoke: "I've thought from the first that Vern was exactly like you?" she said. "And he is."

"My dear child!" Mrs. Hurd held hard to the girl's hand and they sat looking at each other through brimming tears.

Charlotte rallied herself then to make some adequate return aside from her duty as a daughter-in-law. "And I'll wear that watch whenever you think I should," she whispered bravely.

LOUISE LOVELY IN PERSON AT T. D. & L.

Manager Ralph Allan of the T. D. and L. Theater announces as a special feature attraction for Wednesday and Thursday (Thanksgiving) nights, the beautiful motion picture star Louise Lovely (in person) in a high class dramatic playlet. This superb attraction will be given in addition to the regular program of pictures. Miss Lovely will be supported by Mr. Wilton Welch, Mr. George Kunkel and Mr. Frank Rossmore in Mr. Welch's production entitled "Too Many Crooks." This playlet is a short mystery drama of the type of the great Broadway success, "Within the Law."

Miss Louise Lovely is making this appearance in Glendale prior to her journey to the East to star in big-time vaudeville. Prior to her entering in pictures in 1915 as the original star of Jewel photoplays for Universal, Miss Lovely was a legitimate star in England and Australia. She played for many years in the leading London theaters and starred in such great success in "Camille," "The Blue Duchess," "Nell Gwynne," "The Sign of the Cross," "When Knighthood Was in Flower," and many other plays. Miss Lovely was tempted into vaudeville and starred in her own playlets with Mr. Welch in the principal vaudeville theaters of England, Australia, South Africa and India. In 1914 she came to America under a headline contract with the Orpheum Circuit and played through the States and Canada. It is in response to tempting Eastern offers to star for a tour of vaudeville that Miss Lovely is forsaking for a time the silver screen to make a personal tour of America. Her present vehicle is a tense dramatic playlet, specially written for her and has a number of big situations and one big dramatic thrill. Then, after this gripping climax comes the big surprise which would spoil it if told in these columns. Both Mr. Welch and Mr. Kunkel have been closely associated with Miss Lovely on the speaking stage in her young days as a stage star and so the Glendale public is assured of a rare and attractive dramatic treat.

CHAPMAN TRIED TO KILL WIFE TUESDAY

Burbank Man Goes to Birthday Party to Kill Wife is Belief

Frederick K. Chapman of Burbank, aged 51 years, went unbidden to a birthday party for one of his children in Altadena Tuesday afternoon and before it was over had shot and seriously wounded his wife, Mrs. Georgiana Chapman, had fired several shots at the hostess, Mrs. Harriet Dawson, and at her little daughter, and then escaped in his auto.

The shooting occurred at the home of Mrs. Lawson, where four of the eight children of the Chapmans are making their home. Mr. Chapman and his wife are estranged. Mrs. Chapman, who is employed at a hospital in Burbank, went to Altadena to celebrate the birthday anniversary of one of the children, and her husband followed.

Against the protest of Mrs. Dawson, Mr. Chapman entered the house, Mrs. Dawson heard a shot and entered to find Mrs. Chapman with a bullet hole in her chin, grappling with her husband, who held a revolver. Mrs. Dawson went to Mrs. Chapman's aid.

The two women had a rough and tumble fight with Mr. Chapman, they said. In the struggle they rolled on the floor of the front room of the Dawson home and finally rolled out onto the porch, where Mr. Chapman succeeded in wresting himself free from the two women.

Then, says Mrs. Dawson, he fired several shots at her and her 5-year-old daughter, Joan. These shots went wild and neither was injured.

The screams of the women and the shots aroused the neighborhood. Men started running for the house, whereupon Mr. Chapman leaped into his car and escaped.

After the shooting Chapman was followed to his home in Burbank and taken into custody by Pasadena officers. He attempted to fight off the officers by barricading himself in a room in the residence, and when the door was forced open, attempted to end his life by firing a bullet into his brain.

The shot went wild and the only result was a slight scalp wound. He was taken to the Emergency Hospital at Pasadena, where the wound was dressed, and he was later removed to the county hospital.

He will be held under surveillance by the officers until a formal charge is made against him. Mrs. Chapman will recover.

PREACHER ANSWERS QUESTIONS SUNDAY

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 23.—The Rev. Alexander Cairns, pastor of the High street Presbyterian church, at Sunday evening services, makes it a practice to answer questions propounded in writing by members of the congregation at service the previous week. Here are some of the questions and answers he gave last Sunday night:

Question: Do you believe in bobbed hair? Answer: Yes, and in bobbed skirts, too, if they are not too bobbed.

Q.: Isn't a 95 per cent American a worthwhile fellow? A.: Yes, but we covet the other 5 per cent, too.

Q.: Is it wrong to attend shows? A.: Good ones, no; bad ones, yes. I have a ticket in my pocket for a good one.

Q.: What sin is there in having a jolly good time in a Sunday school room? A.: None. So long as it is decent and not destructive.

Q.: Do you believe in Sunday movies? A.: Yes, if they are municipally owned and non-commercialized and censored by the Church Federation. Sunday is for worship and recreation.

WOMAN'S BEAUTY INFLUENCES JURORS

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Fourteen talesmen proved as much affected as Mrs. Otto H. Kahn, wife of the banker, by the childish beauty of Josephine Ragone, who is accused of slaying Frank Incolane. The sympathy which Mrs. Kahn has shown for the story of Mrs. Ragone, mother of three children, was shared by the first 14 prospective jurors summoned before Judge Crain in general sessions, where the young woman is on trial. They frankly admitted they would hesitate to find Mrs. Ragone guilty, no matter what the evidence.

Mrs. Kahn was in court, accompanied by Sheriff Knott. She talked with the lawyers and with Deputy Sheriff Belle Norton, who has the prisoner in charge. According to the prosecution, Mrs. Ragone shot and killed Frank Incolane on October 14, 1920. In August of that year, while her husband was working in Baltimore, the young woman was friendly with Incolane. When her husband returned she tried to put Incolane out of her life, but he refused to leave her alone. The defense will plead that she shot him to save her home.

HARD BOILED

The black-haired waitress, very much out of sorts, sailed haughtily up to the table at which sat the grouchy breakfast customer. She slammed down the cutlery, snatched a napkin from a pile and tossed it in front of him.

Then striking a furious pose:

"Whatcha want?" she snapped.

"Coupla eggs," growled the customer.

"How ya want 'em?"

"Just like you are."

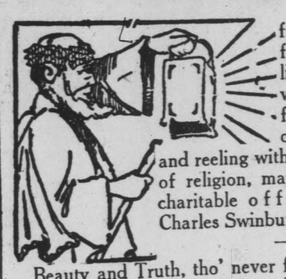
Truths in Epigram



To wipe off the froth of falsehood from the foaming lips of inebriated virtue, when fresh from the sexless orgies of morality and reeling with the delirious riot of religion, may doubtless be a charitable office. — Algernon Charles Swinburne (1837-1909).

Beauty and Truth, tho' never found, are worthy to be sought.—Robert William Buchanan (1841-1901).

PROTECTING THE TRAILS

Announcement is made that certain mountain trails lead to spots designed for promotion of juvenile depravity. To these resorts boys and girls are said to go unchaperoned to remain over week-ends. No restraint whatever seems to be put on their association.

A wrong so gross as this ought not to be tolerated for an instant.

One of the problems demanding to be dealt with constantly is that of juvenile crime. Such crime must arise largely through the lack of home training. Another problem that causes great distress, often when too late, is the disappearance of girls. At a tender age, just when most in need of parental guidance they vanish.

The idea that boys and girls have the privilege of visiting such resorts as those mentioned, is monstrous, but it explains many things, explains the breaking down of proper convention, the flippancy of youth, and the disregard by the young for what usually are looked upon as decencies.

Existence of such resorts is vouched for by the western division officer of the National Woodcraft league. He has taken many of groups of boys into the hills, and he knows the temptations that would beset these lads, had they been permitted to take the trips without proper guardianship.

THE SAVOR OF TREASON

One of the definitions of treason is "betraying the state." This is a general term. When a charge of treason is brought, with a view to extreme punishment, it must rest on proof that aid and comfort have been given to the enemy.

Just now the government of the United States is devoting its energies to the formulation of an agreement among nations. The purpose of the agreement is to lessen the burdens now felt by all of them, to bring about a pervading and friendly understanding; in short, to promote peace, and to elevate the plane of human existence.

It is not to be assumed that a plan at once so vast and so benign may be perfected hastily. It is possible, however, that a long step in the desired direction may be taken, and the forces finally destined to be effective, be set in motion.

If to betray the state is a crime, to seek to betray civilization, the social structure embracing all states, also must be a crime.

As earnest, and it is believed, sincere, men gather at the invitation of the President to pool their efforts into a potent instrumentality for good, there come those who are present only to jeer, to make false report and malign prophesy. These try to engender useless animosities. These desire to point to hidden motives, of their own creation. They devote their energies to craftily forging prejudice into falsehood. They strive to arouse hatred between peoples whose wish is to be friendly. They appeal to a bogus patriotism (their own). They misrepresent every attitude and misconstrue every word entering into proceedings.

To call the correspondents in question liars and to say that mendacity is the weapon they employ, and slander is their chief stock in trade, would not be conventional, and so the opportunity is passed by.

The assaults made by these hired traducers, so far as directed against individuals, perhaps matter little, but as they are aimed at civilization, while technically beyond the reach of written law, have all the savor of treason. They are giving aid and comfort to the enemy of peace, goodwill, and of international understanding.

WHAT HUGHES MEANT

Before the conference there was frequent remark that the delegates should put their cards on the table. Cards so placed must be face up. The figure, as applied to the conference, simply meant that there ought to be complete frankness.

Secretary Hughes was the first to speak. His cards went on the table. There was the absolute directness that had been desired. Speaking for the administration, he told what the United States was ready to do, and what it would expect the others to do.

Even at this, there were some who suspected a bluff. The spectacle of directness in diplomacy was so novel. They could not accept it as a reality. Having clamored for it, having seen it happen, they could not believe that it had happened after all.

Belief is not lacking now. The world knew a few moments after the beginning what Hughes had said, and chose to wonder what he meant. It has found that he meant exactly what he said, this and nothing more nor less.

Yet the correspondents employed for the purpose try to create belief that the occasion that resulted from the invitation of the President, and was marked by the utterance of Hughes, is nothing but an instance of Europe engaged in dictating to the United States.

Even a seasoned correspondent of a certain type does not shrink from making himself ridiculous if the inducement is large.

THE VANISHED HOME

Many writers, whether essayists or creators of fiction, assume as a basis, that the American home is no more. They thus supply themselves with a foundation on which to rest their theses or their tales; not a firm foundation.

Recently a preacher addressing a gathering of his brothers in the high calling, took similar ground. He ascribed to what he termed "feminism" the wreck of the American domestic circle. He seemed to see through tearful eyes, segments of this circle as they rode the stream of time to their finish.

The American home is as secure as ever. The typical American home is as easy as ever to find. The household in which the children live and where they are trained wisely to maturity, respecting their parents very sincerely, far from being an institution all of the past, is not even rare.

Writers and speakers who look about their own small spheres and think they are viewing the wide, wide world, visualize a situation that has its setting only in their own minds.

Many changes have taken place, this being an inevitable element of progress. Women have found they may make their livings in ways once barred to them by the same principle that formerly shooed them from the voting booth. The effect of this is observed almost solely in cities. Village life, save as it is made more pleasing by modern improvements, less isolated, is much as it has been. Farm life, brightened and lightened by the introduction of labor-saving machinery remains the industrial stay of the nation.

These pessimistic persons who point to ruin and general social decay, are misled by the social froth. They fail to see the body of calm water underneath. One thing that frets them—and there is much to cavil at, really—is the frequency of divorce. They count the complaints, read the allegations, and mourn that matrimony is done for, and of course they think the family goes into the discard. They fail to reflect that there are light-headed people to whom marriage means nothing. It is a mere episode with them. Such a person, divorced repeatedly, often marries another of the same type; marries several of them, with a legal interval between occasions. Bad husbands desert. Bad wives run away. Children are abandoned. To all these items in the total of the day's news considerable prominence is given. The effect is misleading.

The great mass of men and women have a serious purpose in life. The great majority of husbands and wives are devoted to each other. By far the larger proportion of children respect and love their parents. Men give their energies to providing for those dependent upon them. Women perform their share of the work and accept their share of responsibility.

The little frivolous folk to whom life is a joke, and duty an illusion, and faithfulness not even a dream, kick up considerable turmoil. They make the noise. They furnish the spectacular. But after all, they do not count. The great heart of the nation does not change, and the homes of the nation still are sacred.

Henry Ford intends to beat the battleship into flivvers. Thereafter the pedestrian run down by one of Ford's machines will feel less chagrined. As he gets up and dusts his knees, the victim will even feel a thrill of pride in the thought that perhaps it was the historic Oregon that hit him.

An Opportunity for the Millionaire

By DR. FRANK CRANE

It seems to be the working out of destiny that the surplus of wealth accumulated should be disposed of by millionaires.

Every generation amasses more wealth than it needs. The idea of this surplus being handled by the government as the representative of the collective people is as yet a socialistic dream. At present the sustenance of our institutions and the wherewith for propagandas of progress must come from individuals.

Millionaires are not very imaginative. They are creatures of custom. They bestow their gifts, therefore, almost entirely upon existing institutions.

When a man dies and leaves $50,000,000 he usually, if he is benevolently inclined, donates it to universities, missionary societies, libraries, churches, and the like.

This is good. There is no question but what it is better than the old plan of using one's fortune to endow a family of noble idlers.

But the trouble is that institutions grow old. Very many of them are senile. And instead of helping along the welfare of mankind, they distinctly impede it.

There is one direction which is hereby recommended to all millionaires who may be looking about for some way to use their money for the best interests of the human race.

And that is, to endow The School Republic. The School Republic is simply a movement to begin the improvement of the human race at the place where it ought to begun, that is, with the child.

We have an institution now called the Public School, which is vaster and more potential in its possibilities than any other institution in the world.

The Public Schools have more to do with determining the future of the nations and of mankind than any other organization.

And it is very largely in the grip of the worn-out idea of autocracy.

Schoolrooms are little Prussias and school teachers are little Kaisers.

What children ought to learn and to be drilled in from the kindergarten to the last year in the university is above all things Self Government.

The School Republic is a movement to teach Self Government to children.

It is supported and favored by those who believe in Democracy, not only with their mouth but clear down to the soles of their feet.

It is the only movement that is utterly and 100 per cent Democratic.

The School Republic proposes to make every school a little replica of the United States, to show the children how to elect their own officers, how to make their own laws and how to obey them.

It proposes to drill the children in Democracy and in Citizenship so that when they come out of school they will not despise politics; but will be trained and enthusiastic politicians, equipped to govern themselves, to take an interest in public affairs, and by means of the education that they have received to make this nation not a collection of poor boobs, managed by shrewd officeseekers, but in all reality a government "of the people, by the people and for the people."

THE LISTENING POST

A man was arrogant and selfish and close-fisted and hard.

He wanted what he wanted when he wanted it.

And he went out to get it.

His motto was every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost.

* * *

That has been the motto of a number of men in the world.

On which they have achieved what they believed to be material success.

But material success is often the worst kind of spiritual failure.

* * *

Material success is often considered merely as accumulation.

And by that standard the hog is the greatest material success in the world.

Because he accumulates the most fat.

By keeping his snout in the trough.

* * *

The trouble with material success in human life, considered as the end to be desired, is that it causes the accumulation of mental fat.

Men can get fatty degeneration of the spirit just as they get fatty degeneration of the heart.

* * *

But the hard-fisted and selfish man went about his business.

He took advantage of everybody within the law.

Grabbed everything he could get.

Without regard for the moral rights of anybody else.

Moral right and legal right are not the same.

Many a legal right is by no means a moral right.

A man may have a legal right to do something he has no moral right to do.

* * *

A man may have a legal right to take advantage of the weakness or foolishness or silliness of some one else.

But he has no moral right to do so.

If he claims to be a real human being.

The old doctrine of caveat emptor is based upon legal right.

But by no means upon moral right.

* * *

We have perhaps a legal right to sell some worthless thing to a foolish buyer.

And take his money.

But there is a wide difference between the legal right to do so and the moral right to do so.

And the attitude of nations today is one arising from the enforcing of legal right with force and the neglect of moral right.

* * *

So the hard fisted and arrogant and selfish man fell to talking about the nations.

And the proposals of disarmament.

And he was for peace.

Because it meant better conditions and lower taxes and all that.

And he inveighed against the stiff-necked and war-mad nations that stood in the way of peace.

He thought the whole matter of war could be adjusted by the diplomatic say-so of a few men.

And he spoke loudly for peace and made addresses and all that.

* * *

And one day he fell in with a truth-teller.

Who heard him inveigh and declaim and orate about peace.

And the stupidity and criminal folly of nations.

And the truth-teller took him to task.

* * *

"What is the national spirit?" asked the truth-teller.

"It is the spirit that makes for war," proclaimed the harsh man, replying to the question without answering to it.

"It is the sum of the individual spirit," corrected the truth-teller, answering his own question.

* * *

"Well, what if it is?" asked the harsh man who got what he wanted when he wanted it any way he could get it.

"Who are the individuals who make up the national spirit?" asked the truth-teller.

"You and I and the others," replied the arrogant and hard-fisted man.

* * *

"Exactly," returned the truth-teller. "And in the business affairs of the community what is your spirit?" asked the truth-teller.

"I look out for myself," said the harsh man quickly. "That is what I ought to do."

"And that is what nations do when they get ready for war," said the truth-teller.

* * *

"That is an entirely different matter," said the harsh and selfish man.

"It is exactly the same matter," said the truth-teller. "It is the spirit in the nation that you have as an individual."

* * *

"But if I do not look out for myself who will?" asked the harsh and selfish man.

"That is just what the nations say," said the truth-teller.

* * *

"Then where is the solution of the problem?" asked the hard-fisted man.

"With the individual," said the truth-teller. "Every problem that has to do with the human family goes right back to the individual."

* * *

"How can I help?" asked the selfish man.

"By cleansing your soul of greed and selfishness and shrewd cunning and lack of regard for your fellow beings," said the truth-teller.

SONGS OF THE POETS

Omnia Somnia—By Rosamund Marriott Watson (1863-1911)

Dawn drives the dreams away, yet some abide.
Once, in a tide of pale and sunless weather,
I dreamed I wandered on a bare hillside,
When suddenly the birds sang all together.

Still it was Winter, even in the dream,
There was no leaf nor bud nor young grass springing;
The skies shone cold above the frost-bound stream;
It was not Spring, and yet the birds were singing.

Blackbird and thrush, and plaintive willow-wren,
Chaffinch and lark and linnet, all were calling,
A golden web of music held me then,
Innumerable voices, rising, falling.

O, never do the birds of April sing
More sweet than in that dream I still remember:
Perchance the heart may keep its songs of Spring
Even through the wintry dream of life's December.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

THE NATIONAL ANTHEM

[Waterbury American]

How many people there are these days who think that it is necessary to defend some sacred American possession or shrine. We shouldn't wonder if sooner or later someone should recommend a sharpshooter on top of Bunker Hill monument. Just now people who are afraid that the "Star-Spangled Banner" is imperilled are urging congress to declare it the national anthem. They especially fear those people who are proposing to make the national anthem out of Katherine L. Bates' "America the Beautiful." It will not be an easy thing to do. The latter is much easier to sing, but the former is more familiar, has strong patriotic association and a ring in its best parts which Americans have come to feel is the true expression of national spirit. Probably "The Star-Spangled Banner" will be retained as the national hymn and all will sing it who can, and as well as they can. But everybody, for singing purposes, will prefer the tune of "God Save the King" to the words "America," which sings itself and everybody can join without pain or strain. "America the Beautiful" is a later product which grows on people the more they sing it, but which has got a hard row to hoe before it is popularly adopted in preference to the tune which has tradition, usage and general acceptance behind it.

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA M. STEWART

Something's got to be done about our heroes and heroines! The average novel of today portrays an entirely abandoned species. Is it a hero? He calmly relates his most intimate relationships with this favorite and that (it takes at least three hectic amours to make a book), reveals his total ignorance of honor, drinks wildly in spite of the Volstead act, and enjoys reeling off by the page his cheap cynicism and opinions of all things sacred. He had rather not be read about than to lack the iconoclastic color.

And the heroines! Far removed are they from the lachrymose Elsie Dinsmores and unbelievably good Ellen Montgomeries, the simple Megs and Beths and Roses of the last generation. They have swung to the opposite extreme—instead of pausing in perfect equilibrium. They sit cross-legged on the tables, clad in scanty habilaments. They smoke numberless cigarettes (no pipes as yet, but probably that will come). They hesitate not to refute all the old womanly beliefs and ideals. They insist on "freedom," which, to them, is merely license to follow where fancy leads. They unblushingly analyze their sensations, they declare their desire for caresses, they do not scruple to swear when they think occasion demands an epithet.

We must read to keep up with the times—to gain a realistic view of life. So we are told. But it isn't necessary to wade in sewers to know that they are smelly and foul. It isn't necessary to devour salacious fiction to realize that there is evil in the world. Surely there is sweetness and charm left about which to write. Why not make use of that?

Comment on the News

By HENRY JAMES

While there is a tendency to glorify crime, it might be well to consider the case of one Spurgin, once a banker in Chicago, and now a fugitive.

One day a poor woman went into his bank, known then to be insolvent. She desired to deposit $15. The teller, having a remnant of conscience, hesitated to take it, but Spurgin instructed him otherwise. She lost that money, of course, and the rest of her deposit.

Not much glory in that.

While a mother was trying to comfort a fretful baby in a department store, some thief took her purse. Nobody offers the meed of glory to the skulking miscreant.

Somebody steals the wheel of a working lad who had used it in earning his daily bread. The larcenist wins no glory. The fellow who robs an oil station, or a store, or some belated pedestrian, or throws the owner of an automobile out, and drives away, is not a hero.

But a sneaking, lazy lout, with health and strength and skill, declining to work, turns mail robber. Such of his booty as does not represent gain, he casts away, causing grievous loss to others. When captured he boasts that he will get away, and up to the present he has succeeded. As a prisoner he boasts of his prowess, his bravery, his love for the wife and child basely deserted by him. Altogether he is portrayed, largely by his own account, as a worthless, dangerous and despicable creature.

This is the material that soft-hearted and soft-headed folk have erected to a hero.

Why not let the other thieves have a share of the glory?

It is frequent for complaint to be made of the theft of a scarfpin. The loser will state that the value of the article was $1000 or $2000, and that some rude person snatched it while the street car was crowded.

In these troublous times, when the sinner is abroad, meaning that he is at home also, the best place to wear a $2000 scarfpin is at the bottom of a safety deposit box.

There can be no real occasion for lighting one's way into the ordinary street car by the flash of a diamond.

The senate has knocked out the proposal to fix the inheritance tax on estates of $100,000,000 or over at 50 per cent.

A dispatch from La Grande, Ore., tells of a heavy fall of snow there. The item recalls a time long past.

In December of 1884 a train pulled into La Grande from the east, and stopped. A furious storm was raging, and the road ahead was blocked. Twenty-four hours later the road behind also was blocked, and the train nearly buried under the drifts.

To make a long story short, the train stayed right there for twenty-one days. Amusements were few and grub inferior. Probably none of the passengers ever had experienced so prolonged a period of twenty-one days.

That season still is mentioned in the northwest as the "winter of the big snow."

Japan's great naval victory in the war with Russia is being described. The purpose of the description just at this time doubtless is to warn this country against the prowess of Japan.

The United States, however, ever appreciative of good intent, and duly grateful therefor, probably attaches considerable importance to the fact that it is not Russia.

Somebody has given another of the gin-soaked orgies now known in police and in certain social circles as "a party." Unfortunately one of the feminine guests fell out of the window, and as it was three stories above ground, has not been able to explain what inspired the leap.

Another guest of the same sex was found, but suffering from the mischance of inebriation, was not coherent.

The male guests ran away. Apparently quite a typical "party."

OLGA STEEB THRILLS LARGE AUDIENCE

The piano recital by Olga Steeb with the Ampico, given as a courtesy program to the Tuesday Afternoon Club by the Barnes-Schuck Music Co., drew a large audience which overflowed into the hall and the reception room of the Masonic auditorium.

As usual, Miss Steeb played exquisitely and demonstrated the faithfulness of the reproductions which had been made by the Ampico, Liszt's Etude, D flat, affording excellent opportunity for the artist to alternate in playing melody and accompaniment. In "Tarantella" (Liszt), she also alternated with the Ampico. Other numbers in which Miss Steeb played alone and revealed her fine technique and feeling were: "Rhapsodie" (Brahms), "Hark, Hark, the Lark" (Schubert-Liszt), "Sherzo" (Mendelssohn), Sonata, Op. 35 (Chopin), "On Wings of Song" (Mendelssohn-Liszt), and "Forest Murmurs" (Liszt).

Preceding the program was a business session at which pleas for contributions to the club's bazaar were made by Mrs. Holbrook and Mrs. A. M. Williams, supplemented by a word from the president, Mrs. Hutchinson.

A very moving appeal was made through a letter from Mrs. Eleanor Harriman of the county farm, reciting how much store the old people there set on the trifling remembrances which have reached them for several years past at Christmas time from the women's clubs, their eagerness for the small gifts being more pitiful than that of the children. Mrs. Harriman stated that a new building soon to be occupied would increase the number to nearly 700, and unless there was an appropriate increase in the response this year many would not be remembered. Mrs. Hutchinson reinforced the call and stated that Mrs. H. R. Boyer had been appointed county farm chairman and would be glad to receive donations, particularly money, which could be utilized to supply gifts if the store fell short. She also asked for magazines and phonograph records for the county farm.

The president then introduced Mrs. Charles H. Turck, who presented to the club two art treasures, large tapestries of the modern French school, one representing the Temple of Love in the garden of Versailles. She explained that they were being bestowed now that the architect of the clubhouse might plan a place for them.

Great applause followed the speech and the president, on behalf of the club, expressed its appreciation of the beautiful gift.

The president also presented the case of an ex-service man who is a student in the University of California, southern branch, completing a course and receiving from the government an allowance of $100 a month, of which he is sending $75 a month to his mother, who is dependent upon him. The school authorities found he had been living on one meal a day. The request was for someone to provide him with room and two meals a day for service which he would render in return as chauffeur, window washer, cleaner or other work.

Mrs. John Robert White offered an amendment to the constitution which was adopted and which provided that any woman who had been a member of the club in good standing for five years may apply for and secure life membership on payment of $100.

Mrs. Hutchinson then presented a business proposition which had been made to the club by Mr. Meyers, whose property on Brand boulevard adjoins the club lots, one of which measures 53 2-10 inches in width. For this excess over the customary width of lots he has submitted an offer of $750, which the executive board had voted to accept subject to the ratification of the club. The motion to accept the proposition precipitated quite a discussion, Mrs. John Robert White strenuously opposing acceptance for reasons which she ennumerated as calculated to damage the club's holdings. Mrs. A. M. Hunt and Miss Daniels were of her opinion. Mrs. Rudy, Mrs. Andrews, Mrs. Packer, Mrs. Findlay, Mrs. Williams and several others, endorsed the motion as being an easy way to make $750 without reducing the lots below the customary size. When the vote was taken it was overwhelmingly in favor of the sale.

Announcement was made that the next club meeting, which will be on the fifth Tuesday of the month, will be a social one with Mrs. H. E. Bartlett in charge of the program. Its special purpose will be to welcome and introduce new members, who were instructed to wear a flower to distinguish them, the old members being requested to wear their visiting cards conspicuously placed to serve as an introduction.

The floral decoration of the clubhouse with bowls of yellow chrysanthemums, orange marigolds and deep blue cornflowers, was decidedly artistic.

CITY TEACHERS' CLUB ENDORSES MEASURE

The regular monthly meeting of the City Teachers' club was held Tuesday afternoon with Miss Noble presiding. Sixty were present and the chairman of membership reported a practically one-hundred percent enrollment, or something over ninety members. Several resolutions were adopted, one being an endorsement of American Eeducation week. Another resolution endorsed the Tower-Sterling bill now before congress providing for a secretary of education who will be a cabinet officer.

The club elected two members to represent it on the two sections of the California Teachers' association, Southern Branch, R. D. White being chosen for the supervisor group and Miss Gladys Sharpe for the teacher group.

As at present constituted the California Teachers' association is made up of institute units, each city having a board of education and employing 50 or more teachers constituting a unit, or each county having a board of education being a unit. Not until Glendale organized under a city charter with a board of education were the Glendale City schools eligible under this classification and Mr. White and Miss Sharpe will therefore be the first representatives on what is practically the executive committee of the association which will meet subject to call.

The chief feature of the program was the report of Superintendent R. D. White of the N. E. A. convention which he attended as the delegate of the club. He divided his talk into a report of business transacted and ideals enunciated, and quoted from addresses and reports made at the convention.

ENTERTAINED FOR LOS ANGELES GUESTS

A very delightful dinner was enjoyed last night when Mrs. Jennie Merrill and Miss Alice Merrill, of 736 South Adams street entertained. Guests were Mrs. O'Brien, Mrs. Watts, and Mrs. Klinch, all of Canada and Mrs. Johnston of Los Angeles.

MISS RETTBERG WAS HOSTESS TUESDAY

Miss Josephine Rettberg entertained Tuesday evening a number of the members of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Glendale Presbyterian church at the home of her brother, H. C. Rettberg, 1239 East Harvard street.

Following a business session games were played and refreshments were served. The following members were present: Misses Nellie Warner, Anna Triol, Inez Harrison, Phyllis Baker, Helen Engle, Ella Dockter, Margaret Pardon, Hope Ireland, Mildred Cole, and Messrs. Sabin Buck, Dick Link, George Stanley, Dick Nelson, Jack Nelms, Orin Barnes, Earl Hammond, and Josephine Rettberg.

CHRISTIAN CIRCLE CLUB MEETING

The Christian Circle club met last night at 5:30 at the Baptist church with about 62 girls present. Miss Soper gave the usual Bible study. Business concerning the new membership contest was brought before the girls by Nell Leggittt and the four captains, Dorothy Howard, Dorothy Cotton, Florence Hamilton and Martha Eilers, called their squad rolls.

Dorothy Howard's team held first place last night. Every girl in Glendale is cordially invited to attend these meetings. Supper is served at 5:30 for the small charge of 15 cents and a very interesting meeting always follows.

DINNER PARTY AT CHARLES BEGGS HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beggs of 1107 North Louise street entertained Tuesday night at a dinner party, covers being laid for ten. Mr. Beggs recently returned from a trip to Wyoming and brought with him a large Elk which held an important place on the menu.

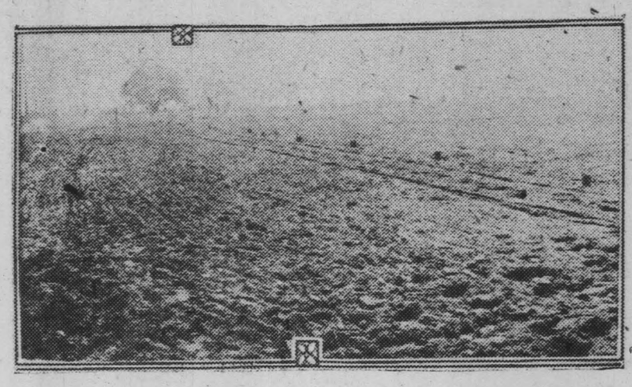
Thanksgiving decorations were used, such as orange candles, orange crepe paper baskets and large turkeys for place cards. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Cutler, Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Clark, of Glendale, and Mr. and Mrs. W. Faircloth, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Berry, of Los Angeles.

A meeting of the Shakespeare section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club was held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Bert Ward, 451 West Myrtle street. The third act of "Richard II" was studied. From 12 to 2 o'clock a rehearsal was held of the scene from "Midsummer Night's Dream" for the club in January.

Mrs. Young gave a brief history of the life of Richard II, and Miss Helen Goldthwaite gave a sketch of the life of Christopher Marlowe. The meeting proved very interesting indeed, and at the close of it, delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Chester King, 720 South Maryland avenue, Monday, December 5.

Glendale City Park As It Will Not Appear Some Day



The accompanying picture will, it is believed, be of real interest to Glendalians for a reason which will be obvious.

It is not a picture of some vale wherein a "thrush at eve" is singing for Mr. Cadman, although the features of the scene are sufficiently veiled not to intrude too harshly on the vision. Neither is it a Turner picture, although you can turn 'er in almost any direction and the effect remains about the same. Some may be ready to aver it is one of Whistler's impressionistic sketches of an English down, but that is wrong, too, although Reverend Smart has declared it is "90 feet down by actual measurement." Sherlocks in the picture line have declared it is a picture of the Lady of the Lake with the lady left out and taken just before the laboring stag strained full in view but they, too, are wrong, grievously wrong.

In conformity with its policy "See America first," the Glendale Press is presenting this view (interesting for what it conceals as well as for what it reveals) of a civic asset with which Glendalians should become better acquainted. In brief, it is a picture of our city park upon which our high school students will have a chance to feast their eyes if the Gray site is chosen in the coming election. The undulations seen are neither the waving gorse nor the mounting billow, but windrows of fertilizer to nourish the trees with which the site was planted by the city forester with the help of loyal citizens in the first enthusiasm of its acquirement.

It is a real thing, not a mirage, a spot which will some day be the mecca of every boy in town when the promised swimming pool materializes, and when the trees are big enough to justify themselves, provided the walls of the flood control are sufficiently reinforced to protect against the onrush of devastating waters.

Some day it will be a real Garden of Allah on the edge of the desert and we will rejoice even more than we do now over the wisdom of city fathers in rescuing it from the wash for pleasure of coming generations.

Three-piece cape costume of black serge is embroidered in white. The short cape, which is attached to the shoulders, is bound with scarlet.

I HAD A MOST INTERESTING chat with Mr. Robinson of ROBINSON'S MEN'S SHOP, 116-A South Brand Blvd., this afternoon, about his Christmas merchandise. Mr. Robinson said: "What a difference in the gift that is just a gift, and the one that has been thought out with your particular tastes, desires, and needs in mind! For Christmas is made an occasion of even greater happiness when you feel the assurance that you have more than merely satisfied a convention."

A muffler is always an appropriate gift at Christmas time—and Robinson's have them in all the fashionable materials, weaves and shapes from cotton to camel's hair—and from satin to imported crochets! Then there are handsome ties—in an abundance of designs made or imported by Wilson Bros.—and of course—hosiery, for it is a gift which every man has a right to expect at Christmas. A touch of individuality will be found in the good looking monogram buckle in cut steel or silver. Then there are numerous things in a man's wardrobe such as cigarette cases, shirt studs, tie-pins and clasps, collar pins, etc., that may be cleverly fashioned of heavy plate, but relatively inexpensive.

These are just a few of the distinctive gift suggestions which Robinson's are now showing. Yes, indeed, there are so many more thoroughly worthwhile gifts that I'd suggest that you stop in and look them over. Mr. Robinson is placing at your service, in selecting gifts that men really appreciate, his years of experience in catering to their wants.

A MODISH FUR, either as a trimming or a coat, is quite an important part of Milady's gown, now! Miss Bedell, of the BEDELL FUR SHOP, 1125 N. Louise St., has just shown me some of her exquisite new pelts—and they are beautiful! She has the loveliest taupe and black caracul that would be simply stunning for coats, collars or even fur trimming. But—just the thing for a coat collar is the handsome gray Krimmer! Then of course she also has Kolinski, sable, Siberian squirrel, Alaskan seal and luxuriant, long-haired foxes from which you may make your selection! Miss Bedell does such excellent repair work, putting new collars and cuffs of fur on old suits—and even renovating the old fur itself! Then, too, she is an expert designer of furs—accentuating in each garment the lines that will enhance one's charm! Call her at Glendale 429-J.

Mrs. Billig is an expert manicurist, hairdresser and masseur. She is "right up" on the very latest modes and fashions—and what's more she suits her work to the individual, not simply carrying out a general rule. Mrs. Billig's prices, too, are most reasonable and entirely within the reach of everyone. Call her and make an appointment next time you're in need of a shampoo—or "beautifying"!

Tub silk makes an ideal frock for wear at home during the summer months. It is soft, does not wrinkle at all and will stand a good deal of wear without retubbing.

"LOVE WILL FIND A WAY" is every bit as attractive as its name would indicate! It is a fox trot, with such wonderful harmony that one can't help but dance to it. And, best of all, both "Love Will Find a Way" and its coupling, "One Kiss," another dandy fox trot, are played by Selvin's Orchestra! This is their first Brunswick recording but already they've won unprecedented success as a dance organization! Just as different as "day from night" are these two hits—but they are both the sort of melodies that you like from the first time you hear them! Yes, of course, it was at the NEW ARTISTIC BRUNSWICK SHOPPE, 126 S. Brand Blvd., that I heard them—they are among the December list of Brunswick records! And there are ever so many more just as good as the one I've told you about, both in the popular and classical lists!

Next week, on December first, there will be the special Christmas release of Brunswick records, four wonderful Christmas numbers. But I'll not tell you their names now—wait till next week, for then they will be on sale at the Brunswick Shoppe.

Caruso's Brother Here to Settle Estate of Singer

Giovanni Caruso, younger brother of the great tenor who died in Italy several months ago, arrived in New York to close up the affairs of the Caruso estate in this country. Immediately after landing Caruso got in touch with the singer's widow. She will assist him in itemizing the property which Enrico Caruso held here. The brother was accompanied by his lawyer. They were met at the pier by Bruno Zarato, former secretary of Caruso. The brother does not speak English. Through an interpreter he asked to be excused from saying anything.

SMALL FORTUNE IN GOLD IS MISSING

Taken From Vaults of Liner While on High Seas is Belief

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—Gold bullion valued at more than $125,000 stored in special money vaults on the trans-Pacific liner Sonoma, was stolen while the vessel was on the high seas, it was learned today. The Sonoma arrived here yesterday from Sydney, Australia. The money had been stored in special tanks, with supposed burglar-proof locks. When the tanks were opened yesterday the money, which was contained in five boxes, was found to have disappeared.

Investigation showed that the locks had been filed off. The bullion was consigned from Australian banks to the International Banking corporation, according to Frederick S. Samuels, general manager of the line. Just when the robbery took place is unknown, but Captain Matheson of the local detective force is inclined to believe that the locks were broken before the vessel arrived in Honolulu and that the bullion was landed from the vessel there.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Caswell of 231 South Central avenue, will entertain 14 guests at Thanksgiving dinner.

Robert Roach og 459 Milford street, will entertain a group of his friends at a dancing party tonight. Thanksgiving decorations will be used.

A DIPLOMATIC HUSBAND

The wife of a western congressman is sensitive on the subject of her deficient orthography and her demands for information as to correct spelling sometimes place her peace-loving husband in a delicate position.

One day, as she was writing a letter at her desk, she glanced up to ask:

"Henry, do you spell 'graphic' with one 'f' or two?"

"My dear," was the diplomatic reply, "if you're going to use any you might as well use two."

EXTRA PROFITS FOR THE RANCHER GAINED FROM STUDY OF MODERN TILLAGE METHODS BY COMMUNITY FIELD GATHERINGS.

California ranchers, with difficult problems, accomplish wonders and add profits by studying the conditions of their own districts in a practical manner. Following the state fair at Sacramento, a number of the leading ranching communities, realizing that they have individual problems which they must solve for themselves have formed community field gatherings where the best tillage methods for that particular locality have been studied and decided upon. To assist them at these field gatherings, they have invited some of the leading tractor and implement dealers of Los Angeles, firms who maintain service departments and firms whose tractors and implements have been specially constructed to meet California conditions.

Such a meeting will be held near Van Nuys on Wednesday, November 30, by the ranchers of that vicinity on Max Pfaffinger's ranch, corner Sherman way and Woodley avenue, 2 1-2 miles west of Van Nuys; and if it is successful, as similar meetings have been in the northern part of the state during the past 60 days, every rancher and orchardist in the community will be benefitted. A group of Los Angeles dealers, consisting of the Holt Mfg. Co., Dixon & Griswold Co., and the Killefer Mfg. Co., will assist at this field meet and lend what assistance they can to the ranchers of this section. In the interest of the fruit growers, the Dixon & Grisworld Co., will bring their La Cross orchard disc and mold board plows, which were designed in California especially for California orchardists. These La Crosse orchard plows are the ideas of prominent California growers and were worked out by a designer having years of experience with the oldest disc manufacturer in the United States.

The Killefer Mfg. Co. will have on hand their famous deep tillage tools for sub-soiling. They will show the practical operation of their sub-soilers, cultivators and disc harrows. These will be a revelation to many of the ranchers in the valley.

One of the most interesting features of next Wednesday's meeting, is the fact that both the Killefer Mfg. Co.'s tools and those of the Dixon & Griswold Co., will be operated during a 6-hour field meet—from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.—by the new small model of the Holt Caterpillar Tractors. This T-35 caterpillar tractor was seen for the first time at the state fair held this past September. This will be the first opportunity for the many ranchers and orchardists to see this wonderful new Model T-35 caterpillar tractor in action.

It will be interesting to many to know that the H. G. Pendell Co., of Los Angeles, will transport the tractor and implements in a Denby truck and two trailers.—Adv.

CITY PRINTING

ORDINANCE NO. 503

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE PROVIDING A METHOD FOR EXTENDING WATER MAINS OF THE PUBLIC SERVICE DEPARTMENT, AND FOR THE ESTABLISHMENT OF LIENS FOR THE COST THEREOF UPON THE REAL PROPERTY BENEFITTED THEREBY, AND PROVIDING FOR THE ENFORCEMENT OF LIENS THUS CREATED.

Be it ordained by the Council of the City of Glendale:

SECTION 1. Whenever the public interest or convenience requires the extension of any water main or mains of the Public Service Department to and into any territory in the City of Glendale, or the laying of any such water main or mains in and along any street or streets in said City, the Council may by resolution declare its intention to so extend such water main or mains, or to lay such water main or mains, describing in such resolution the territory to and into which such main or mains are to be extended or laid, and the street or streets and the portion or portions thereof in or along which such main or mains are proposed to be extended or laid, together with the size and character of such main or mains, it shall not be necessary to describe in detail such improvement, but in such resolution reference may be made to the specifications, plans, cross-sections or profiles, or any or all thereof, on file in the office of the Superintendent of Plant and Production of the City of Glendale, for further particulars and a description of such improvement. Whenever any such proposed improvement is, in the opinion of the Council, of more than local or ordinary public benefit, the Council may make the cost and expenses of such improvement chargeable upon a district, which district it shall in such resolution of intention describe by specifying the exterior boundaries thereof and declare it to be the district to be benefitted by such improvement and to be assessed to pay the cost and expenses thereof.

"The Council may also, in its discretion, declare in such resolution of intention that the City shall pay a percentage of the expense of such improvement, or that the City shall pay an amount thereupon to be fixed in such resolution, or that the assessment against all of the property to be benefitted by such improvement shall be limited to an amount to be fixed in such resolution, and that the City shall pay the remainder of the expense of such improvement."

SECTION 2. The resolution referred to in Section 1 hereof shall be published once in the English language in the official newspaper of said City. Upon the adoption of said resolution the Superintendent of Plant and Production shall cause to be conspicuously posted in such street or streets in which any such main or mains are to be extended or laid, not more than 300 feet apart and not less than three in all, notices of the passage of such resolution. When an assessment district is established in said resolution of intention, such notices shall also be posted along the streets and parts of streets within said district and not more than 300 feet in distance apart. Said notices shall be headed "NOTICE OF IMPROVEMENT" in letters of not less than one inch in height, and shall in legible characters state the fact of the passage of said resolution, its date of approval, the character of the improvement proposed, and shall refer to said resolution for further particulars.

SECTION 3. Within ten (10) days of the publication of said resolution and the completion of the posting of said notices, the owner of any real property abutting on that portion or portions of the street or streets in which such main or mains are proposed to be laid, and in case the cost and expenses of laying such main or mains is to be assessed upon a district, the owner of any property in said district, may file with the City Clerk addressed to the Council, a written protest respecting the extension or laying of such main or mains, and describing the property owned by him, which it is proposed to assess therefor. At its next regular meeting or at any subsequent meeting to which the hearing thereof may be adjourned, the Council shall hear such protest or protests and pass upon the same, and its decision thereon shall be final and conclusive.

SECTION 4. The affidavit of the proprietor, foreman or clerk of the newspaper publishing said resolution showing such publication, and the affidavit of the Superintendent of Plant and Production, or of the person or persons posting such notices, shall be filed in the office of the Superintendent of Plant and Production and shall be prima facie evidence of due and proper publication of said resolution and posting of said notices.

SECTION 5. At the expiration of ten (10) days from the publication of said resolution and the completion of the posting of said notices, if no protest is made, or upon the overruling of such protest or protests if made, the Council by motion or resolution may proceed to lay such main or mains along said street or streets, or any portion or portions thereof; provided, however, that before proceeding to lay such main or mains along said street or streets the Council shall advertise for bids for said work as provided in Section 9 of Article VI, of the Charter of the City of Glendale, when the expenditure required for same shall exceed the sum of $1,000.00.

SECTION 6. Upon the completion of the work of laying such main or mains, the Superintendent of Plant and Production shall compute the cost of such main or mains and of the improvement, and shall deduct therefrom any percentage or amount or portion thereof which the Council in its resolution of intention may have declared that the City shall pay, and shall assess the remainder against the several parcels of property fronting or abutting on streets or parts of streets wherein such main or mains shall have been laid, or in cases in which the cost and expenses of such improvement shall have been chargeable upon a district, then against the parcels of property in such district, all in proportion to the benefits received from said improvement by the several parcels of property. The amount of each such assessment shall become a lien against the parcel of property so assessed as of the date of its confirmation by the Council as hereinafter provided and shall thereupon become due and payable to the City of Glendale. The assessment so made against property owned by the City, or by the United States of America, or the State of California, or the School District, or any other public Agency, and devoted to public use, and the percentage or amount or portion, if any, which the Council may have declared in said Resolution of Intention should be paid by the City, shall be paid by the City out of such funds as the Council may direct.

SECTION 7. The Superintendent of Plant and Production shall provide a suitable record book entitled "Assessments, and Liens for Water Main Extensions." In said book there shall be entered the name of each street in which any such main is laid; the name of the owner, if known, of each lot or portion thereof assessed (if such owner is unknown the word "unknown" shall be substituted for the name of the owner); a description of such property; a designation of each lot, piece of parcel of such property by an appropriate number; the amount assessed against said property; the date of said assessment; the penalty for delinquency in the payment thereof; the total amount chargeable against said property at date of sale thereof, if sold; date of sale; name of purchaser; date of redemption from such sale; name of redemptioner; amount paid to redeem same and date of certificate of sale, and date of deed, if made.

No error in the name of the property owner and no error in the description of the property shall affect the validity of the lien provided for in this ordinance, provided that the description is such that the property referred to may be identified therefrom.

SECTION 8. When the entries in said book respecting any street have been made by the Superintendent of Plant and Production as provided herein, he shall cause to be published notice thereof for three (3) days in the official newspaper of said City.

SECTION 9. Any property owner affected by proceedings taken under this ordinance, feeling aggrieved by any act or determination of the said Superintendent of Plant and Production or said Council relating to such improvement, or who may claim that said main or mains have not been laid in a workmanlike manner, or having any objection to the correctness or legality of the entries in said record book may, within thirty (30) days after the first publication of the notice provided for in Section 8 hereof, make and file with the City Clerk objections or protest in writing which shall briefly specify the grounds of his objection or protest. At the next regular meeting of the Council following the expiration of said thirty (30) days, the said Superintendent of Plant and Production shall present to the Council the said record book and the entries therein pertaining to such improvement, and the City Clerk shall at the same time present to the Council any and all relevant objections or protests which may have been duly filed. Thereupon, or at a time to which the matter may be adjourned, the Council shall consider such assessment and any objections and protests which may have been filed pertaining thereto, and may remedy or correct any error or informality in the proceedings and revise or correct any of the acts or determinations of the said Superintendent of Plant and Production, or other officer of the City relating to said improvement, and may confirm, amend, set aside, alter, modify or correct the said assessments entered in said book in such a manner as it shall seem just. If there be no objections or protests, the Council shall, at any regular meeting after the expiration of the time for making and filing objections or protests confirm such assessment. The decisions and determinations of the Council in such matters shall be final and conclusive upon all persons entiteld to object or protest under the provisions of this section.

SECTION 10. Commencing in the first week in January and the first week in July of each year, the Superintendent of Plant and Production shall cause to be published for a period of three (3) days in a daily newspaper, published and circulated in said City, a list of all such liens remaining due and unpaid on the first day of the month in which such publication is commenced. Such list shall contain the name of the owner of each parcel of property upon which there is due any assessment under this ordinance or if the name of such owner does not appear in said book entitled "Assessments and Liens for Water Main Extensions," then the fact that such lien is entered against "unknown owner," a description of the property and the total amount necessary to satisfy each such lien, which shall include the proportion of the total cost of publishing the notice hereby required which one bears to the total number of liens so advertised. There shall be attached to said list a notice that unless each such lien is paid in full before the time fixed for sale, ten (10) per cent of the amount of each such lien shall be added thereto for delinquency, and that the property upon which such assessment is a lien, will be sold at public auction at a time and place to be specified in said notice. The time of sale must not be less than five days nor more than ten days after the expiration of the period of publication of said list and the place of sale must be in the office of the Superintendent of Plant and Production or in front of the City Hall of the City of Glendale.

At any time prior to the time fixed for such sale, any such lien shall be cancelled upon the payment to the City of Glendale of the amount thereof plus such advertising cost and delinquency penalty as shall have accrued pursuant to the terms of such notice.

SECTION 11. On the day fixed for the sale, the Superintendent of Plant and Production shall at the hour of 10 o'clock a. m., commence the sale of property advertised, commencing at the head of the list, and continuing in numerical order of lots or parcels of land until all are sold; provided, that he may postpone or continue the sale from day to day until all of the property is sold. Each lot, piece or parcel of land separately assessed must be offered for sale separately, and the person who will take the least quantity of land, and then and there pay the amount of the assessment, delinquency penalty, and costs due, including fifty cents to the Superintendent of Plant and Production for a certificate of sale, shall become the purchaser. In case there is no purchaser for any lot, piece or parcel of land so offered for sale, the same shall be struck off to the City of Glendale, as purchaser, and the City Council shall appropriate out of the general or such other fund as the Council may deem proper, the amount required for such purpose, and shall order the City Treasurer to place the same in the special fund for such improvement. No charge shall be made for the certificate of sale when the municipality is the purchaser.

SECTION 12. After making the sale, the Superintendent of Plant and Production must execute, in duplicate, a certificate of sale setting forth the description of the property sold, the name of the owner thereof, as given on the record book entitled "Assessments and Liens for Water Main Extensions," that said property was sold for a delinquent assessment (specifying the amount for which the same was made), the amount for which such property was sold, the date of sale, the name of the purchaser and theh time when the purchaged will be entitled to a deed. The Superintendent of Plant and Production must file one copy of such certificate in his office and deliver the other to the purchaser, or if the City of Glendale is the purchaser, to the City Clerk of said City, who shall file the same in his office. On the filing of the copy of such certificate in the office of the Superintendent of Plant and Production, the lien of the assessments shall vest in the purchaser, and is only divested by a redemption of the property, as in this ordinance provided. The Superintendent of Plant and Production shall also enter in the record book entitled "Assessments and Liens for Water Main Extensions" opposite the description of each piece of property offered for sale, a description of the part thereof sold, the amount for which same was sold, the date of sale, and the name of the purchaser.

SECTION 13. A redemption of any parcel of property sold for delinquent assessment hereunder may be made at any time prior to the execution and delivery of a deed therefor, by paying to the Superintendent of Plant and Production the amount for which the property is sold, and in addition thereto, ten (10) per cent thereof, if paid within three (3) months from date of sale; twenty (20) per cent if paid within six (6) months; thirty (30) per cent if paid within nine (9) months; and forty (40) per cent if paid within twelve (12) months. When redemption is made, the Superintendent of Plant and Production shall note that fact on the duplicate certificate of sale on file in his office, and deposit the amount paid by the purchaser named in the certificate of sale with the City Treasurer, who shall credit the sale with said amount, and pay same to the purchaser or his assigns upon the surrender of the certificate of sale, and upon satisfactory proof of assignment thereof, if any. When the City of Glendale is the purchaser, the Treasurer shall notify the City Clerk of the redemption, and such Clerk shall thereupon cancel the certificate of sale on file in his office, and said Superintendent of Plant and Production shall also note said fact of redemption, in said book entitled "Assessments and Liens for Water Main Extensions," in an appropriate column, entering therein the date of redemption, the person by whom redeemed, and the amount paid.

SECTION 14. At any time after the expiration of twelve months from date of sale, the Superintendent of Plant and Production must execute to the purchaser or his assignee on his application, if such purchaser or assignee has complied with the provisions of this section, a deed of the property sold, in which shall be recited substantially the matters contained in the certificate, also any assignment thereof and the fact that no person has redeemed the property. The Superintendent of Plant and Production shall receive from the applicant for a deed, one dollar for making such deed, unless the municipality is the purchaser, in which case no charge shall be made therefor. The purchaser or his assignee must, at least thirty days before he applies for a deed, serve upon the owner of the property, and upon the occupant of such property, if the same is occupied, a written notice, setting forth a description of the property, that the said property has been sold for a delinquent assessment (specifying the improvement for which the same was made), the amount for which it was sold, the amount necessarysary to redeem at the time of giving notice, and the time when such purchaser or assignee wil apply to the Superintendent of Plant and Production for a deed. If the said owner cannot be found, after due diligence, said notice must be posted in a conspicuous place upon said property, at least thirty days before the time stated therein, at which the application for a deed will be made. The person applying for a deed must file with the Superintendent of Plant and Production an affidavit or affidavits showing that notice of such application has been given, as herein required, and if the notice was not served on the owner of the property, personally, that due diligence was used to find said owner; which affidavit or affidavits must be filed by the Superintendent of Plant and Production in his office. MILO WHEAT

If you want something good to eat
Just try a meal of Milo Wheat;
You need not worry, the expense
To you will not exceed 3 cents.
Take notice what I'm telling you—
This includes Milk and Sugar, too;
'Twill satisfy, so you'll not feel
The least bit hungry 'till next meal

Again, if this food you should use
'Twill help to drive away the blues,
If one good meal you eat each day,
The cause of blues will pass away;
You will not go 'round looking sad
Because your indigestion's bad,
For stomach trouble will all go
When Milo Wheat you learn to know.
—Adv.

COMMERCIALISM AID REGENERATION

Non-productive Idlers Not Entitled to Wealth, Hide Behind Art

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The Greenwich Villager, dabbling in art for art's sake, is overlooking a one best bet. Far from being a menace, the commercial spirit of the age holds the key to the "riddle of spiritual well-being."

So says the American Exchange National Bank, which, in its current monthly letter, forsakes the dry field of finance to pay its respects to the young ladies and gentlemen who spend their time about cellar tea tables, denouncing the ways of commerce.

"In fact," avers the bank, "if it weren't for the commercial instincts of someone gone before, these young people might be grubbing for their own living instead of discussing art." The dissertation continues:

When War Was Main Job

"In the days when war was the chief occupation of nations the warrior naturally held the mere trader in contempt, and as he usually profited from war the trader did not object. Later, at the beginning of the modern economic system, the heirs of the warrior class were still in possession of large land holdings, which the econmists of that day sought to justify upon the ground that a leisure class was needed as a medium for the transmission of culture to the next generation, to carry on the traditions of the race and to bear forward the fruits of progess and civilization.

"In a degree these economists were right; the leisure class of that day, directly or indirectly, did not only in large part recover the culture of past ages, but they also erected a new culture and raised new standards which they bore gloriously forward, standards which have elevated the entire human race, standards upon which the superstructure of modern civilization is firmly set.

Our Own Age Is Greatest

"Our distinguished predecessors were also responsible for much foolishness for which we must excuse them, as they also were memebrs of the human race. But they were rarely guilty of the foolishnss of living in the past. They were seldom found going back to the cave men for standards with which to measure their contemporaries.

"Our own age is the greatest of any of which we know that the world has ever seen, and commercialism has made it what it is, for commercialism has applied the wisdom of the ages toward the improvement and the welfare of all mankind. And furthermore, unless it miserably passes its opportunities by, commercialism will eventually solve the riddle of spiritual well-being.

"Except that the enthusiasm it invokes is rarely genuine, there is no objection to the pursuit of art as a diversion for those who are not artists, provided they do something to earn the leisure in which to carry on the pursuit. Loafing on unearned money is an economic crime. The son of the rich man is no more entitled to leisure than the son of the poor man. Wealth in the hands of the individual is a trust which cannot rightfully be employed in support of idleness. The modern code requires that every man shall make his own contribution to society, and that is one of the canons that are leading commercialism toward the spiritual regeneration of the race."

REALTY DEALERS MEET ON TUESDAY

State Realty Board Secretary to be Here to Address Realtors

An enthusiastic meeting of the governing committee of the Glendale realty board was held Tuesday night in the office of the C. B. Guthrie company, C. D. Thom, president of the board, presiding.

The first business transacted was acceptance of R. M. Stryker's application for membership.

A communication from the State realty organization was received stating that Glenn D. Willaman of the state board, will be in Glendale on Tuesday, November 29, in connection with his tour of Southern California.

The secretary was instructed to wire him at Fresno to advise him that the local organization has arranged for a meeting of the realty board and other real estate dealers of Glendale, for next Tuesday. This will be in the form of a noon-day luncheon, the plae for the luncheon to be selected later.

The secretary was also instructed to write to the secretaries of the Toledo, Ohio, and Long Beach Realty boards to secure an explanation of the plans of these boards and the methods of operation, the idea being to ascertain if these can be used in connection with the Glendale board.

It was voted that meetings of this board would be held monthly during the terms of the present officers. The meeing next Tuesday will be the last until after the new year, on account of the holidays.

In order that the programs may be varied and therefore of unusual interest it was decided that each meeting will be taken charge of by three different members of the board at each sessiol.

It is predicted that C. D. Thom, who enjoys an enviable reputation as organizer in Glendale, will put this realty board over this year. The members are behind him. The membership is on the increase and it is proposed to have something unusually interesting at each meeting.

Patience is really the capacity for, and the habit of enduring suffering. It is shown by the serenity with which we submit to the annoyance caused us by others on the one hand, and is displayed in a wider and deeper sense by the fortitude which we exhibit in all the concerns of life, in good and bad fortune.

LOCAL CANDY MAKER MAKES A HIT WITH LOS ANGELES MAN

Kaighin & Everette Products Highly Praised by Hayselden

That local manufacturers are beginning to attract attention is evidenced by the following letter which was received a few days ago by Secretary Rhoades of the local chamber of commerce, from a large Los Angeles concern, whose president has been taking notice of the products of Kaighin & Everette, local candy manufacturers. The letter which follows does not exaggerate in the least upon the good qualities of Kaighin's candies:

"My Dear Mr. Rhoades:

"A few days ago I was in your city and while there I purchased a box of candy which I afterwards learned is manufactured in your city by Mr. Kaighin, and I want to say for Glendale that this factory produces about as fine a candy as our family has had the pleasure of eating, and while you have many other splendid advantages over there, you surely can produce the 'candy,' figuratively as well as literally.

"Whoever these people are, they are worth giving a boost, as their candy is delicious as well as fresh, and they are entitled to the local Southern California trade.

"Within a short time now I hope to be living in Glendale, for if you live any place else you are 'camping out.' With regards, I remain,

"Yours sincerely,
"P. J. HAYSELDEN,
"Canfield-Hayselden Co."

JUICY TOMATO WAS KING OF U. S. IN '19

Sweet Corn Came Second, With Maryland in Lead for Production of Both

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22. — The juicy tomato was America's favorite vegetable in 1919, according to statistics made public recently by the Census Bureau of the Department of Commerce. The output of tomatoes constituted 21.14 per cent of all vegetables produced in 1919, and it required 316,399 acres to supply the demand of the American public for this appetizing side dish. Maryland led all States in the production of tomatoes in 1919, with a total of 58,083 acres; New Jersey was second with 36,986 acres, and California third with 31,410 acres.

Second to tomatoes in popularity was sweet corn, with a total acreage of 271,584, constituting 18.4 per cent of all vegetables produced in 1919 in this country. Again Maryland led the field with an acreage of 34,788. New York was second with 28,965 acres, and Iowa third with 28,595 acres.

The watermelon, ever popular with those who eat for a pastime, ranked third in production in 1919, with a total acreage of 162,064, constituting 11 per cent of the total vegetable output of that year. Georgia was the main source of supply of watermelons, with an acreage of 29,092, and Texas was the runner-up with 22,564 acres.

BATH NIGHT

Pat was helping the gardener on a gentleman's place and, observing a shallow stone basin containing water, he inquired what it was for.

"That," said the gardener, "is a bird bath."

"Don't ye be foolin' me," grinned Pat. "What is it?"

"A bird bath, I tell you. Why do you doubt it?"

"Because I don't belave there's burrd alive that can tell Saturday night from any other."

As the starting motor takes its current from the storage battery it sometimes happens that these brushes for various reasons are not making proper contact, and this means more or less failure in this system. When trouble arises in this system these brushes should be carefully examined.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

COMRADES

Through joy and through sorrow and strife,
By every new path there may be,
Or old one, through all of my life
I make the day's journey with me.
I rise with myself at the dawn,
I dine with myself and have tea,
And then when the twilight comes on
I talk with myself about me.

Just like my own shadow I walk
With me every place that I go,
I listen to me when I talk
To hear all the things that I know.
Sometimes I may scold me or praise,
Dispute with myself or agree,
But all through the length of my days
I have to keep living with me.

I may leave you, of course, anywhere,
I may bid you a friendly good-by,
As forth on my journey I fare,
But I can't bid myself one, not I.
I may shut all the other folks out,
And be quite alone, as you see,
But still I am always about,
Always in the presence of me.

So all through the days of my life
I'll have to keep living with me,
And since I want peace and not strife
I must like myself, don't you see.
And so I amend many ways
Of thought and of action, you see,
I don't want to live all my days
With a fellow who does not like me.

And the logic is plain and is clear,
For you as for me, that is flat:
You have to live all your days here
With yourself, and you can't deny that.
You can't put you up on a shelf,
You can't quit or go on a strike,
So why don't you make of yourself,
The kind of a fellow you like?

The Barton Bedtime Stories

THE MYSTERY OF T HE FALLING TREES.

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by The Associated Newspapers.)

It's more fun to go hunting than it is to ride home after all the fun is over and done. 'Cause you're sure to be tired, and you're likely to be wet, especially when you've been floundering round in the mud of the Big Marsh. And you might be kind of cold when that sharp old wind comes up at sundown. But you don't let on! Not if you're Louie Thomson and Tommy Peele.

They Began to Sing Songs to Keep Their Teeth from Chattering

They began to sing songs to keep their teeth from chattering. Pretty soon big cousin Sandy joined in with his voice that roared like the north wind. And the horses pricked up their ears and cantered along in time to the tune. The Deep Woods hadn't heard so much noise since the cloudburst that helped the Wicked Little Brook play its tricks way along last spring when the little boys went camping. Once they just had to stop because Trailer the Hound tuned up in his squealiest whine, trying to sing the high notes, and they 'most choked trom laughing at him. Then they heard a Cr-rash! Was that a tree falling?

They didn't go far before they heard another. Cr-rash! Crackle! This time they stopped their son, right in the middle, and listened. But the Deep Woods were still as still. Only the dogs could hear a faint gnaw, gnaw, gnawing, with a s-s-cratch! It was just as if the bark were being stripped off a tight-skinned sapling. Trailer pricked up an ear. But Watch growled softly. "Ssh! Don't pay any attention. I want my supper, and you know those two little boys!"

Trailer did know them. And he wanted his supper, too. So he kept still as a mouse. Only it wasn't long before they had to pull up to help Sandy's roan mare over the tree that had fallen across the Deep Woods path beside the Duckling's Oak. (You know that was the time they almost caught Tad Coon misbehaving himself—but he fooled them). Then, cr-rash! The echoes woke for the third time.

"We've heard three trees fall down," exclaimed Tommy Peele. "All in the same place. One might just happen. Two is certainly queer. But three—that means something is going on. Let's go and see."

But they didn't—not right then. For Redskin was as hungry as the dogs. He just clinched his teeth on his bit and raced for home, and the little boys couldn't stop him. And Sandy never tried. For he knew whart their mothers would say to him if he didn't get them back by supper time.

But if they had followed the noise to the Little Dark Pool, just the other side of the bushes, who do you s'pose they'd have found?

NEXT STORY CHIPS BEAVER KEEPS A PROMISE.

EASY INDEED!

The boy entered the hardware store almost out of breath and as he stood looking around in a puzzled way the proprietor asked him what he wanted.

"I don't know," replied the boy as he scratched his head.

"Well, then, I can't serve you," said the hardware man.

"You see," explained the boy, "when I was coming along I saw a dog fight and I got so excited I can't remember whether my father sent me for a foot rule or mother wanted a box of tacks."

"Then you will have to go back home and ask them," advised the proprietor.

"No, I'll not do that. I'll go out and see if I can find another dog fight and, perhaps, if I find one, I'll remember exactly what I wanted. You might have a foot rule and a box of tacks on the counter handy so that as soon as I remember I can rush in and snatch up the right article. Father or mother will be getting very impatient."

To blacken brass or bronze fittings that are no longer ornamental in their original state, wash the part to be operated on in a solution of acetate of lead, four ounces; hyposulphade of soda, four ounces; and two quarts of water. The parts are placed in the solution, which must be hot, until they have assumed the desired hue, when they should be taken out, wased out and dried and given a coat of cold lacquer.

Town Topics

Council Meets—As the regular meeting date of the city council falls on Thursday, which is Thanksgiving day and a legal holiday, the meeting date has been advanced to this evening.

School Celebration.—The Thanksgiving program at Glendale High will be put on at a morning assembly or rather two assemblies, the first of which will convene about 10 o'clock. There will be musical numbers and the speaker will be Dillon Bronson from Boston, who will tolk on a Thanksgiving theme.

Columbus Lands.—The soccer game between Columbus and Broadway, played Monday afternoon on the Columbus avenue field, proved a very close contest ending with a score of 3 to 2 in favor of Columbus. Fine team work was done by the winners and excellent playing by the defeated, their stars being Frank Wykoff and Orbie Hatcher.

Dorans Lost.—Monday afternoon the soccer ball team of Doran street school played against the Cerritos avenue school team on the Doran campus and was defeated by a score of 2 to 0. The Doran players had expected it as the Cerritos team is considerably heavier, but they put up a plucky fight and felt they held their own with credit. Star players for Doran were Norval Stanley and Frank Baudino.
